Change in Time Rural Route No. 2

By order of the Post Office Dept the mail will travel on the Didsbury Rural Route No. 2 as follows:

Leaves Didsbury on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 11:00 a.m. Returns to P.O. at 3:40 p.m. same day.

The change of time means that the morning mail will now go out on the route, and we are advised that local mail posted previous to 10 a.m. will also go on the route.

Patrons, doubtlessly, will be pleased to learn that Mr. V. A. Gillrie's contract for Route 2 has been renewed for another four years.

Seeks Court Order to Stop Stampede

Supreme Court injunction restraining the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Company Limited from producing the Calgary Stampede, or any similar show, is sought in a civil action being launched by Guy Weadick, former manager of the stampede.

In addition Mr. Weadick seeks $100,000 damages against the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Company, asserting that he is injured by the continued use of his show by the company.

He seeks an interim and permanent injunction restraining the company from using any mailing lists, pictures, folders, lanterns, or any original ideas, stunts or publicity, or any other materials or things whatsoever conceived, originated or invented by the plaintiff, or to which he has the sole right and use.

The Hospital Dance.

The "Calico Ball" given in aid of the Didsbury General Hospital last Friday evening was a big success—both socially and financially.

There was a large crowd and the great variety of calico dresses made a bright and pretty showing on the floor while the dancing was in progress.

Miss Ben. Kendrick was prize-winner for the best home-made dress, and Miss Lottie Hunsperger won the prize for the prettiest ready-made dress.

The proceeds showed a creditable surplus of $40.00, which, we understand, will go towards the purchase of an electric refrigerator, which is badly needed at the Hospital.

Enjoy Musical Evening.

A number of young people of the Knox United Church drove to Carstairs after church on Sunday night and enjoyed a musical evening at the home of Miss Ruth Liscenser.

It was a "Lowell Patton Musical" and most of the selections played were composed by that artist.

The story of the life of Lowell Patton was read by Mr. Albert Meston. Among those who enjoyed the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Boorman, the Misses Alice and Mollie Pearson, Alexia Black, M. Saugstad, Margaret Goggin, Nelda Hugst, Jessie McCoy, Benice McGhee, and Messrs. Jack Hyslop, Rod Clarke, Albert Meston and Frank Moyle.

Ontario Farm Group Breaks With C.C.F.

On Monday heads of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation moved toward reorganization of the body in Ontario, joining the ranks of Communism, the main object of the step. Along with announcement of reorganization by J. S. Woods, north president of the C.C.F., and M. P. for Winnipeg North Centre, came the breaking-away from the C.C.F. of the United Farmers of Ontario.

Withdrawal of the U.F.O. from the C.C.F. removed Miss Agnes McPhail, U.F.O. member in the House of Commons for Northwest Grey, from the executive council of the C.C.F. When the U.F.O. stepped out, Miss McPhail automatically followed.

LOCAL & GENERAL

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Steckley visited their daughter, Mrs. C. Walline, at Otonari, Alta., over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McCoy visited Mr. and Mrs. Axell at the Raven over the weekend.

Rev. A. J. Mitchell went to Calgary on Monday for medical treatment. He was operated on Tuesday at the Calgary General Hospital.

Mr. I. Kaplan shipped three cars of cattle to Okotoks this week. These cattle had been fed on the Casey farm during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Clarke drove to Edmonton over the weekend. They were accompanied by Mrs. J. L. Clarke.

Mr. J. W. Hallon represented the Didsbury Lodge at the annual session of the Grand Lodge of Alberta I.O.O.F. held at Edmonton last Thursday and Friday.

We are very pleased to hear that Mrs. Ed. Ford, who had her knee operated on in Calgary last week, is progressing very favorably and expects to be home this week.

At the Business Girls' meeting held at the home of Miss N. Wilson three tables of bridge were played, Miss Dorothy Ranton securing the first prize and Miss Nelda Hugst the consolation.

Mr. A. Brusco was one of the winners of the championship cup at the Scottish Rite hospital in Calgary last week. He played second on the Sault rink which won the cup and will be presented with a small replica of the cup. Mr. J. McGhee skipped a rink in the same 'spiel.

Larry Leavens, Al. Russell, Art. Reiber and Ted Ross drove to Blairmore on Saturday afternoon to witness the Olds-Coleman hockey game. Ross, who is a member of the Olds team, took part in the game. Driving 540 miles to see a hockey game indicates enthusiasm.

Sounds of revelry by night recently issued forth from a certain hospitable home in the southeast end of our fair town. It was the pictures and the tables that were upside-down—not the guests. Henry VIII (with lampshade crown), together with the Queen of Sheba, headed the supper table, where toothpicks were served and creamed-chicken best. May those present never grow too old to enjoy such fun.

Evidence Leads To Belief That There Is A Gradual Recession Of The Ice Caps At The Earth's Poles

Science is at it again, this time taking away the reputation of the Arctic. That is, it is getting warmer. Not much, it is true, but give it time—geologic time, that is. Recently it was discovered that the Cornett glacier, in Greenland, which in 1886 was four hundred miles north of the Arctic Circle, is now about three-fourths of a mile farther from it. Further it was found that in tundra districts of our northern forest line is advancing at the rate of one mile a century.

However, it will be quite some time before skating will have to be abandoned, for there is a matter of five million square miles of ice at the Arctic Circle and 1,000,000 in the North, and, anyway, scientists give it a considered opinion that we are now living in the Quaternary ice age, which began about 600,000 years ago. They add, just in case there are some laymen who consider this ice at the poles and elsewhere as a settled fact, that there have been various ice ages and between times there are mild intervals which are measured by tens of millions of years.

When the ice melts it will mean a lot of increase in the oceans and perhaps in the lakes, and there is even danger that some sections of the earth will be completely submerged. But there is no need yet to build rafts. People dwelling in these parts, however, have no particular difficulty in looking forward for they have evidences all about them of times long before this geological age, in the old lake shores, in glacial remains, and in fossils that bespeak a time of vast greenhouses where the white silence of the North now reigns. A New Milking Apparatus

Inventor Seeks Patents On New Spillable Milk Pail

The new sanitary, non-spillable milk pail, according to its inventor, Charles O. Gysler, 37, will have "Tossal" in the middle, was explained to newspaper men at Winnipeg. When friend cow feels the urge to spill the milk with a well placed kick, it will be just wasted effort, Gysler said.

Patents on the invention have already been secured at Washington. Gysler stated one United States manufacturing firm considers the patents worth $25,000 to them.

An insect chamber on top of the milk pail is the secret behind the revolutionary milking apparatus. After milking, the chamber with water, Gysler demonstrated the "kicking power" of his pail by kicking it across the room. No water was spilled.

Poultry On The Prairies

Nearly Half Of The Poultry Of Canada In Prairie Provinces

That the poultry are appreciating the poultry route is being recognized, says the Dominion Poultry Husbandman, for in three years the poultry population of the three prairie provinces increased over four million, and in 1931 nearly one half of Canada's poultry was upon the prairies. In the whole of Canada there is only one province.

Ontario, that had more poultry than Saskatchewan and Alberta. Of the millions of bushels of grain consumed by poultry each year, nearly one half of it is fed in these three provinces. Saskatchewan alone has nearly as many head of poultry as the provinces of Prince Edward Island, British Columbia, and Quebec combined.

Could Use Seven Million

British Columbia building requirements for provincial purposes alone in the next five years will be not less than $7,000,000, an official study conducted at the legislative building revealed. No such program could be financed by the province unaided, however, it was stated.

Vitamin C In Apples

Study Shows Baldwin Is Rich In This Respect

The Massachusetts Experimental Station has recently started a study of the vitamin content of the leading apples of the northeast.

Information on the Baldwin and McIntosh varieties has been published which shows that the Baldwin is a rich source of vitamin C, while the McIntosh supplies very little of this important food supplement. Spraying with lime sulphur and arsenate of lead had no effect on the vitamin content. Fresh cider from the Baldwin was found about one-half as valuable as the fruit itself, while pasteurized or homogenized cider lost practically all its value. Fresh apple sauce, both strained and strained, while lower than the juice in vitamins, was useful, but in canned apple sauce vitamin C is practically destroyed.

England Fighting Potato Bug

Common Colorado Beetle Is Giving Farmers Considerable Trouble

The Colorado beetle or potato bug, which made its appearance in some parts of the United Kingdom this past summer and caused damage to the potato crops and led to a campaign being begun for its extermination, is still causing uneasiness.

It has not been disposed of by any means, and in preparation for next season's attack on the crops it is "digging itself in" in a manner that is somewhat upsetting to potato growers.

Tilbury, Essex, is the scene of the beetle's latest exploits, according to reports. While ministry of agriculture officials were staking the soil near the docks, they found the beetle at a depth of two feet. The spot seen near the airport, at which beetles were found in August following the discovery by a ministry official of a cricket in the roadway.

Officials of the ministry have been at Tilbury for some time in connection with the matter. When the presence of the beetle is suspected, sporadic digging is carried out. In the hibernating insect is discovered, the whole adjoining land is fumigated with carbon disulphide, injected by a kind of glorified syringe.

One of the men who has been fighting the beetle under the direction of the ministry said he had been occupied, off and on, since last August. "We found several specimens in different places," he said.

Canadian Chambers Of Commerce Urged To Encourage Better Grade

Regina Board of Trade has put its shoulder behind the Canadian bacon hog policy and is offering a trophy for the best winter bacon litter from the Regina zone, and is offering prize money of $50 added to the regular classification for the best group of three hogs at the Regina fall show and the champion leave and sow, if from the Regina zone. In addition to this they are suggesting to the Chambers of Commerce that there be united action by Boards of Trade for the bacon hog policy, and that each Board of Trade sponsor similar encouragement in its own locality.

Graphic Description Is Given Of Conquest Of Mount Everest By Intrepid British Aviators

Idea Worth Imitating

Rhode Island School Children Interested In Planting Tree

Rhode Island is experimenting with a novel reforestation plan which will find many imitators if public funds ever again become available for such things. It is an idea deserving to be on file for future use.

On five acres of land donated to the town the school children of West Greenwich are planting 1,500 trees donated by the State Forestry Association. An expert forester bosses the planting job.

Thus will a new forest be planted, children, school and forestry and the aims of reforestation brought home to an entire community. The school children will plant and cultivate their forest and protect it from insect enemies, and will go out into the world knowing more than their parents about trees.

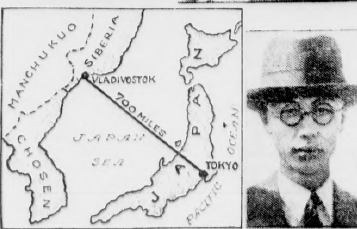

With the constantly increasing importance of forestation the school forest idea constitutes a practical contribution to rural education. Without involving a large expenditure of public funds it furnishes an opportunity for public spirited citizens to make a real contribution to their community and to posterity.

Canadian Wall Paper

Exports Are High To Several Countries Including Japan

There must be a very large number of homes in the United States whose interior decoration is Canadian wall paper for the export of that commodity to Great Britain is a large one every month. In December, the same may be said of Australia and New Zealand, which 32,000 rolls went. Japan uses considerable Canadian wall paper and the fact that Italy does also the country of all countries that appeals to us as a nation of artists is testimony to the quality of that product of the Dominion. The December export was 90,838 rolls, compared with 66,768 in December, 1932. The 1932 export of $19,582 rolls was somewhat less than in 1932.

SPRING ATTACK BY JAPAN WILL FIND SOVIET READY

That war with Japan is regarded as almost inevitable this coming spring is indicated by reports reaching London that the Soviet Government is concentrating large supplies of food, munitions and aircraft at Vladivostok. The Russian port last is only 700 miles from Tokyo. Commander of War, Clementine Voroshilov, that, rightly, is reported to have been at Leningrad the Trans-Siberian Railroad for many months for the transportation of men and munitions to the port that it is believed would be the first objective of a Japanese attack. Observers say the force that may fire the magazine may be the Chinese army of Henry Pu Yi, chief emperor of the Japanese-controlled state of Manchukuo on March 1. In announcing it would follow the policies of his predecessor, Generalissimo Atsuh, the new Japanese Minister of War, General Senjuro Hayashi, told L.T.U. he wished to have dispelled the hopes of peace that were born with Atsuh's resignation.

Although British aviators have conquered the roof of the world, soaring above Mount Everest in one of the most dangerous of earthly adventures, the 29,000 feet of towering rock in the lofty Himalayas will still be a fine thing with a new challenge resulting from that, the conquest of Mount Everest last April, Air Commodore P. F. M. Fellowes, D.S.O., A.D.C., told an audience of more than 1,000 at the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa.

Commodore Fellowes, who was leader of the Hounston Mount Everest expedition which sent two British aeroplanes over the hitherto uncharted mountain, spoke under the joint auspices of the Canadian Geological Society and the Ottawa Women's Canadian Club at the only lecture he will give in Canada.

Pointing to a tiny black patch on the rugged side of Mount Everest, as seen in a vertical photograph taken in the famous flight, Commodore Fellowes said geologists who had studied the spot had decided it must indicate a lake of hot water in a region of rock, ice and snow. This was indeed a lure to attract explorers in the future, he predicted, to prove or disprove the geologists' theory.

Using a series of remarkable still photographs and several reels of motion pictures, Commodore Fellowes carried his audience along every step of the expedition, from the preparatory stages in England in November, 1932, to the return of the two planes after their successful flight over Everest on April 2.

Months were spent in studying weather conditions, ascertaining the last possible day on which a flight could be made with a possibility of seeing the mountain clear of clouds. Elaborate preparations were made to safeguard the personnel against the far below zero at 20,000 feet above sea level. Each man wore a heavily padded uniform, equipped with oxygen supply, a microphone for talking to his mates, and lined with electric wires for heat.

Observers, while all in this paraphernalia, which made them look like he had pulled a heavy sack over his head, had to take pictures, while standing in a 120-mile-an-hour wind, holding in their hands an 18-pound camera.

Political difficulties were overcome through the co-operation of the Maharajah of Nepal, who gave permission for the expedition to fly over his little-known country. However, the aviators were scrupulous in obeying the instructions of the secretary of state for India not to fly any further into Tibet than was absolutely necessary because of the fears of the people of that land over such incursions.

Commodore Fellowes summarized the reasons for the flight as the pleasure of a pleasant adventure, the desire to conquer the last of the great geological obstacles, the need for a survey of the south approaches to Everest, for information concerning aerial distances to the vicinity, and for scientific purposes.

Jury Fined For Verdict

Because they acquitted Thomas Comanore on charges of robbing a number of times, Philadelphia jurors were deprived of pay for their services. The jury were for the man and two women amounted to $24 each. "This is a unique case in the history of the courts," Judge Walsh remarked. "It is a disgrace to justice, as well as to the community. Thomas Comanore has been acquitted. I am going to charge you from further to be paid the jury your whole pay."

New Swimming Equipment

An invention in Sweden has been equipped to enable man to swim like a fish. The invention consists of a corset of paddles attached to the body, each covering an anatomical surface of 10 inches square, and is made of rubber. The corset, attached to the body, enables man to swim like a fish.

Municipal Budgeting.

In the municipal reports that have come to hand there is no evidence of any "next year" optimism. The municipalities have been making every effort in balancing their budgets here and now, without mortgaging the future. In most instances the resources from the individual and the municipal standpoint have been considerably less than in previous years, and relief costs have been heavy. Frost and drought have made tax payments a difficult business. But payments have been made and the municipal officers have saved here and there, have cut their pattern according to their needs and have emerged from 1933 with a splendid record. Arrears of taxes from other years have also been reduced, the 1933 requisitions for schools, hospital, etc. have been met, bank loans have been paid off. In all details of management the 1933 statements show a substantial advance over 1932.
And 1932 statements showed an improved standing over 1931.

This balancing of the budget is not confined to any one municipality, but seems to be a policy effectively carried out by most municipalities through the province. This is an accomplishment which should command the attention of the Provincial and Federal administrations.

These governments in desperate effort to balance budgets and meet expenses have laid greater tax burdens upon the people, until even possible channel of taxation had been explored. And still the budgets have not balanced. Municipalities, on the other hand, working in their humble way, have not attempted to lay any greater burden upon the people, but have adjusted their expenditures to the likely available revenue. In some cases they have even reduced mill rates. And the results have been more favorable than would have resulted if municipal tax rates had been increased. Perhaps if the larger governments had followed the municipal councils who are most closely in touch with the actual resources of the people, they would have had better results.

Will Provide for West Wheat Board

Legislation providing for a western wheat marketing board would be proposed when the net dealing with steps to implement the London treaty was introduced in the Alberta legislature on Monday.

"The present legislation provides for the possible establishment of quotas in the delivery of wheat to elevators," said Premier Brownlee.
"It does not provide for acreage reduction."

With the purpose of regulating deliveries, there would be provision for setting up a marketing board for the western provinces. Of course the preference was for a national marketing board, and some provincial authorities were still hopeful of that being formed, said the Premier.

OCCASIONAL WIFE

By EDNA ROBB WEISTER
Author of "Jocasta," "Lipstick Girl" Etc.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, deciding to live their own lives apart until Peter is able to provide for her. Peter is a young, struggling actor, trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and so is studying commercial art in the hope of landing an agency job. Others in the story are Avis Werth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter; Sylvia Todd, Peter's mother; and Gus Matson, his former roommate with whom he has quarrelled. At a party at an exclusive club, Peter, encountering Camilla's guests with impertinence. When the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret to continue the party, Peter and Camilla slip off to the beach by themselves and fall asleep on the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Avis is stunned and Camilla's mother likewise. Camilla decides that she must leave the home of her adopted parents immediately and go to live with Rose, her sister, who is a file clerk in a business house. They decide to take an apartment. Bowman and Weeks, an advertising agency, where Camilla has submitted some of her work, send for her and tell her they have a new account which requires unusual treatment of juvenile art. To Camilla's surprise she learns that the account is that of her foster father's company, which has decided on an extensive campaign to bolster up its gas business. After a conference with Mr. Bowman, Camilla decides to attempt the work. With ideas running riot in her head she goes home and spends the night sketching. In the morning, armed with her samples she sets out for the agency.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XXX

It was a question which girl had received the sudden announcement of Peter's marriage with more disappointment and amazement, Avis or Sylvia. To Avis, however, it was merely another obstacle in the path toward her ambition. To Sylvia, it proposed a certain finality for the two possibilities she had sketched, and for which she had been playing a double hand. As she exclaimed to her astonished image when she read the announcement in the society column of the morning paper, "Well for crying at the moment! Who woulda thought they could feel every day like that? Um, um, I guess that says me out with flowers, all right, either way you look at it. I'll bet the high and mighty Avis Werth feels like a pucker up green apple herself!"

"The sardling of the telephone had interrupted her monologue. "That the green apple herself, I'll bet."

"Yeah, hello," she drawled, and nodded her head with confirmation toward her silent audience of one, in the mirror.

"You've seen the latest news?" inquired Avis.

"I just read it and as if you read my mind, the 'phone rings. I guessed it was you right away."

"Clever of you, I'm sure. But you haven't been so clever with Mr. Anson as you expected to be."

"Well, and isn't this good enough proof of the reason why? A new bride—what would you expect of me with such competition as that? I guess it surprised even you, didn't it? Not much chance for either of us, there?"

"Either of us?" surprised.

"Well, you know what I mean. No chance for me to vump him away from the Hoyt girl so you could take him over in sympathy? And she added to herself, "Fine chance you'd had at him if I had got that far."

"I don't know why not?"

"You don't mean you're not ready to give him up, yet?"

"Why should I? Just because a man is married doesn't mean that he's chained to a life sentence, does it? In fact, this particular situation makes it easier to break up. That'll take the affair into my own hands, I'll take the affair into my own hands."

"But, say," Sylvia objected, "I gotta finish my work for him, even if he's married. I wouldn't be so mean as to cheat a fellow like that when he's done nothing to me. Besides, I have some pride in the ethics of my profession, and my reputation. Models don't desert an employer in the middle of a piece of work."

"But yourself about that," Avis agreed indifferently, "but you needn't worry about quitting me in the middle of a piece of work. I won't need your services longer, and if you see a new tenant in Annex Hall, soon, don't recognize me."

"Okay with me, Miss Werth. Rent two studios in the Annex Hall, for I care."

"By the way, you will be wise if you drop your efforts to attract Mr. Anson."

"Say, I'm only too glad not to be under obligation to think up new ways for thawing out that feebler," she retorted, but her blue eyes twinkled with the thought, "Being under obligation to me, let's see, out. But I guess if he is still ripe cherries for you, he is for me, too, your highness!"

But when Sylvia went to Peter's studio on the following day to pose, she experienced a new and unfamiliar interest in the man and his world. She recalled him in her characteristic gay manner.

"So! young man, you've been representing yourself to me as a bachelor, and all the time you were a married man, with a trusting wife concealed in your private life!"

"Well, I guess I've given you no cause for complaint," he laughed easily.

"I'll say you haven't," she admired. "But say, I'd like to see the girl that stirred you up enough to lead you to the marriage licence bureau and then keep it a secret."

"You may, any time you wish. I'll have Camilla run in some way and meet you. She would like to, I'm sure."

"Camilla! sweet name. Is she as beautiful as her name sounds?"

"Ever so much more beautiful!" he declared proudly.

Sylvia reflected upon that with haste. "More beautiful than I am?"

"I wouldn't say that no, but your types are so different, I couldn't compare you. She is about your size, but has dark eyes and black hair!"

"Then I was wasting my time, anyway," she shrugged with good humor. "I might have known a blond gentleman like you would prefer a brunette. Well, good luck to you two, and that means we had better get to work!"

"Thanks, yes, it does," Peter replied. "I have to get this thing ready to cast in the mold in another week, or I won't be ready for the exhibit, after all."

Several days later, when Sylvia came again to Peter's studio, she observed that the hall was strewn with crates and boxes.

"Someone moving in across the hall?" she asked him.

"Looks like it, doesn't it?"

"Well, it'll be nice to have more neighbors. You're sort of alone up at this end of the hall."

"That's why I took this room. That smile across the hall is twice as large as this and twice as much rent, and I don't think it was likely to be occupied very soon."

"Know who it is?"

"Haven't the slightest idea. Nor do I care. I am going to be as busy for the next month that I can't even say hello to anyone."

"Oh, yeah?" thought Sylvia. "Well, they might say more than hello to you," but she said no more to Peter.

When Camilla telephoned Mr. Bowman on the morning after her first conference with his executives, and announced that she had samples ready to submit to him, he exclaimed:

"With dismay and disappointment! But, Miss Hoyt, surely you forgot."

"What I mean is, we want you to take your time, even though we are anxious to have your suggestions as soon as possible."

"That was what I understood," she agreed patiently, "and they are ready now."

"Very well. We shall be glad to see them whenever you can come in." But his voice indicated that he expected to be keenly disappointed, because no one could produce a worthwhile suggestion and the evidence within less than twenty-four hours.

Camilla, however, arranged the precious ink and color drawings in the order she wished to display them and drove downtown confidently. The two hours of sleep had refreshed her unbelievably, and the inspiration of the previous day still made her heart light and her thoughts hopeful. Of course, she conceded the possibility that the work was not as good as she believed it to be, but she was no less eager for the verdict of her judges.

She entered defeated in his cerebral attitude in Mr. Bowman's reception. She thought, "Oh, yes it only her imagination?" He appeared already to feel the disappointment which he anticipated in her hasty work.

After all, he thought, like every young hopeful, the prospect had stimulated her imagination and she had leaped into the first idea that came to her, with visions of sudden fame and wealth. That was what everyone was looking for these days: nothing less an elevator to success and wealth. Ladders to success were obsolete, along with one-hoss shays and celluloid collars.

Mr. Bowman had called a second conference with less optimism, and Camilla found herself once more seated at his right, with six men surrounding the polished walnut table. Her fingers trembled a little with fatigue or apprehension as she opened the portfolio and laid the drawings before them.

"Perhaps I had better explain the idea briefly before you look at these," she suggested modestly.

"Very well, Miss Hoyt."
